

Bio – Marc Montgomery

Marc Montgomery retired from Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) in 2018 as the manager of JPL's Productivity Improvement Program. He is a certified NASA Lean Six Sigma Master Black Belt. His lifetime passion has been to discover ways to improve personal productivity. Since leaving JPL he has been enjoying working on his ample backlog of home projects, enjoying his two granddaughters, and traveling with his wife, Peggy. He has also occasionally found some time to conduct workshops on improving personal productivity. Helping people do more (without working harder!) continues to be his passion!