

A training program to encourage those at the master's level to consider a doctorate – And how to do it

- ✓ For minority* master's students and master's level health professionals in public health and social/behavioral sciences
- ✓ Interested in learning about career opportunities in cancer disparities (research, education, outreach)
- ✓ In good academic standing (minimum "B" average)

* Those communities who experience an excess or unknown burden of cancer and who are underrepresented in the field of cancer disparities research.

Three Components of the Program:

- "Careers in Cancer Disparities Research" 5-Day Summer Institute
Decide if a doctoral program is right for you; acquire the tools needed to apply
- Paid Internships (Optional)
Intern with cancer disparities researchers from prestigious California universities
- Doctoral Application Support Awards
Become eligible for awards up to $2,000 for doctoral application expenses

UCSF Helen Diller Family
Comprehensive Cancer Center

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Sherry C. Kidd
Phone: 310-794-7314
Email: mtpccr@ph.ucla.edu
www.ph.ucla.edu/mtpccr

CSU LOS ANGELES CONTACT

Portia Jackson, DrPH, MPH
Email: pjacks06@calstatela.edu

UCLA
FIELDING
SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

The MTPCCR is a joint program of the UCSF Helen Diller Family Comprehensive Cancer Center and the UCLA Fielding School of Public Health.

Application Deadline is February 10, 2017

The MTPCCR is funded by the National Cancer Institute (R25CA78583)